

Rule 2: Idgham — Merging

RULE: When Noon Sakinah or Tanween is followed by one of 6 letters (Yarmaloon), the Noon DISAPPEARS and merges into the next letter.

The 6 Idgham Letters — Yarmaloon

Ya (y), Ra (r), Meem (m), Laam (l), Waw (w), Noon (n)

Memory word: Yarmaluun. These 6 letters absorb the preceding Noon.

Two Types of Idgham

Type 1: WITH Ghunnah (Nasal Hold) — 4 letters: Ya, Noon, Meem, Waw

- The Noon disappears AND a 2-beat nasal sound (ghunnah) is held before the next letter
- Letters: Ya, Noon, Meem, Waw
- Man Yaqool → Pronounced: may-yaqool (NOT man yaqool) (Noon before Ya — merge with nasal)
- Min Maal → Pronounced: mim-maalin (Noon before Meem — merge with nasal)
- Min Wali → Pronounced: miw-waliyy (Noon before Waw — merge with nasal)

Type 2: WITHOUT Ghunnah — 2 letters: Laam and Ra

- The Noon PURELY merges — no nasal hold, just absorb into the next letter
- Letters: Laam and Ra only
- Min Rabbihi → Pronounced: mir-rabbihi (NOT min rabbihi) (Noon before Ra — pure merge)
- Min Ladunka → Pronounced: mil-ladunka (Noon before Laam — pure merge)

Important Condition

RULE: Idgham ONLY applies when the Noon Sakinah and the Idgham letter are in TWO DIFFERENT WORDS. If they are in the same word, Izhar applies instead (e.g., Qinwaan, Bunyaan — clear Noon).

What is Ghunnah?

Ghunnah is the nasal humming sound produced through the nose. It should be held for 2 counts (2 harakaat — time of 2 short vowels).

★ Place your fingers on the sides of your nose while saying the Noon — you should feel vibration for Idgham with Ghunnah.

Quranic Practice

- ★ Min Rabbihim (from their Lord) — appears many times in Quran. Practice: mir-rabbihim.
- ★ Man Yaqool (whoever says) — common pattern. Practice: may-yaqool with held nasal.
- ★ Total letters covered so far: 6 (Izhar) + 6 (Idgham) = 12
