

What is Madd?

Madd means elongation — stretching a long vowel for a specific number of counts (harakaat). The 3 long vowel letters are: Alif (aa), Waw (oo), Ya (ee). A harakah = time to pronounce one short vowel.

5 Types of Madd

| Type | Name                 | Beats      | When It Occurs                        | Quran Example                                 |
|------|----------------------|------------|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|
| 1    | Natural (Tabee'i)    | 2          | Long vowel + no Hamza or Sukoon after | Qaala (he said) — alif = 2 beats              |
| 2    | Connected (Muttasil) | 4-5        | Long vowel + Hamza in SAME word       | As-Samaa'i (the sky) — 4-5 beats              |
| 3    | Separated (Munfasil) | 4-5        | Long vowel + Hamza in NEXT word       | Innaa Anzalnaah — long aa before Hamza of Anz |
| 4    | Necessary (Laazim)   | 6          | Long vowel + permanent Sukoon/Shadda  | Ad-Daaaaleen (Al-Fatiha) — 6 beats            |
| 5    | Temporary ('Aaridh)  | 2, 4, or 6 | At a stop (waqf) only                 | End of verse stops — flexible                 |

Natural Madd — Details

This is the foundation — every other Madd is compared to it. 2 beats always, as long as no Hamza or permanent Sukoon follows.

- Qaala (said) — alif = 2 beats
- Noor (light) — waw = 2 beats
- Deen (religion) — ya = 2 beats
- Bismillaah — both alifs are 2 beats

Connected Madd (Muttasil) — Details

Same word: long vowel then Hamza in SAME word. Stretch 4-5 beats. This is Wajib (compulsory) in Hafs recitation — you MUST stretch.

- As-Samaa'i (the sky) — aa then Hamza
- Jaa'a (he came)
- Al-Mala'ikah (the angels)

Necessary Madd (Laazim) — Details

6 beats — the LONGEST. When a long vowel is followed by a Sukoon or Shadda that is permanently there (not a stopping sukoon). Cannot be shortened.

- Ad-Daaaaleen in Al-Fatiha (v7) — most common example
- The opener letters (Alif Laam Meem, etc.) at start of surahs

Practice Guide

- ★ Tap your finger 2/4/6 times to keep the beat while practicing.
- ★ Natural (2) → Connected (4-5) → Necessary (6): each adds 2 more beats.
- ★ Al-Fatiha has both Natural Madd (Rahmaan, Raheem, Deen) and Necessary Madd (Daaaaleen).
- ★ Listen to Mishary Alafasy recite the Fatiha slowly and count the beats on each vowel.
